2nd opinion	confirm - The 'AFTER' image clearly shows extensive land reclamation where open water was present in the 'BEFORE' image, forming large new landmasses along the coast, which is a definitive sign of coastal construction.
Reasoning	The 'BEFORE' image shows a natural coastline. The 'AFTER' image reveals extensive land reclamation and construction extending into the sea, forming large, artificial landmasses where there was previously water. This dramatic alteration of the coastline to create new land is a clear example of coastal construction.
